

Informationen zu den Referenten

---

Referent	Prof. Dr. C.Y. Jim
Vita	Professional Training BA degree with First Class Honours in geography and geology from the University of Hong Kong PhD in soil science from the University of Reading (UK) under the aegis of a Commonwealth Scholarship Certificate in Hydrology at the US Geological Survey in Golden (Colorado School of Mines) Professional Experience Professor since 1993 and Chair Professor in Urban Ecology since 2000, at present he is Master of Robert Black College at the University of Hong Kong, and was Head of Department of Geography and Dean of Faculty of Arts Research and Contribution: His research focuses on the core nature-in-city theme, encompassing urban ecology, urban forestry, urban green infrastructure, urban soil science, green roof, green wall, natural and artificial turfs, urban biodiversity, urban nature conservation, and nature-based solutions for sustainable urbanization. The multidisciplinary, interdisciplinary and transdisciplinary approach is adopted in studying compact cities Thus far he has accumulated 36 years of teaching, research and consultancy experience, covering conceptual and applied domains and logging field experience in over 100 cities. His contributions to knowledge have been recognized by the L.C. Chadwick Award for Distinction in Arboricultural Research by the International Society of Arboriculture
Kontakt Daten	Professor C.Y. Jim Department of Geography University of Hong Kong Room 1018 Jockey Club Tower Pokfulam Road Hong Kong, China